DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments, see Paper 12, filed August 13, 2003, with respect to the rejection(s) of claim(s) 1-18 have been fully considered and are persuasive. Therefore, the rejection has been withdrawn. However, upon further consideration, a new ground(s) of rejection is made in view of Decinque, U.S. Patent No. 6,286,139.

Response to Amendment

Applicant's request for reconsideration of the finality of the rejection of the last Office action - as discussed in Interview Summary (Paper 13) and Request for Reconsideration (Paper 11) - is persuasive and, therefore, the finality of that action is withdrawn.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Decinque U.S. Patent No. 6,286, 139.

Decinque discloses a system and method for ordering video content through the Internet. Vendors advertise their video products and services through the Internet (broadcasting messages that contain information/clips of a product) [Col 1, Line 13]. Allowing the end-user to purchase the product immediately, by clicking on the advertisement, creates an impulse purchase potential (responding to the broadcast message using a first transmission medium, i.e. the Internet) [Col 1,

Art Unit: 3625

Line 46]. The end-user's order travels from their client-side interface, via an Internet server to a data processing center (fulfillment center) [Col 2, Line 19]. The Internet server comprises a database that stores customer data, including a passcode or telephone number [Col 4, Line 53]. The end-user is required to input a passcode, which is matched to that stored in the database, to determine if they are in fact allowed to purchase a product (determining whether customer is permitted to purchase the item) [Col 5, Line 7]. If the end-user is verified, the video content is delivered to them via cable lines (second transmission medium is different from the first transmission medium, different address is associated with customer) [Col 5, Line 26]. The customer is billed for the content (payment identifier associated with the customer) [Col 5, Line 26].

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

The articles "Global Media...", "Platinum Entertainment...", "Thinking Globally...", "Tune into...", "Yahoo!", "WebRadio.com...", "Blue Note Radio" disclose the proliferation of Internet radio stations. Consumers can listen to a station and purchase the songs that like. These articles do not disclose however the delivery of such media over another communications network.
